SOUTHERN BARBECUES.

In various of our warlike Southern exchanges we observe that the invitations to assemblages held in defence of Southern Rights are usually headed "Southern Barbecues," "A Bountiful Barbecue will be prepared." Over a table groaning with roast beef, and other "fixins," including perhaps Turkey and Oyster Sauce, the doctrines of resistance and nullification are proclaimed.

Now, our Southern friends may be great statesmen, and great phiosophers, theoretically, but we should judge from the above that they know precious little of human nature. Whenever we read, at the head of an inflammatory invitation to a Secession meeting, those magic words, "Southern Barbecue," a smile of satisfaction and hope plays involuntarily upon our lips. The failure of the Southern Secession cause thus far is accounted for easily. Cæsar, usurper as he was, felt that even the pillars of a tyranny were strong when guarded by fat, jolly fellows, who liked good feeding, and had plenty of it. It required, in his opinion, a "lean and hungry" man to be a rebel, and all history confirms the sagacity of his views.—The government of England has experienced danger of late years, but it has been from half-famished Chartists and Irishmen. The men in blouses, who drove Louis Phillippe into an inglorious retreat from his throne, were poorly fed. Nay, to almost every dangerous leader of revolt you may address with truth the words:—

"Famine is in thy cheeks,
Need and oppression stareth in thine eyes,
Upon thy back hangs ragged misery;
The world is not thy friend, nor the world's law."

Even a tyrant himself ceases to become formidable when he increases in flesh.—While Napoleon was thin and lived abstemiously, he never met his peer. He became fat, and the consequence was—Waterloo.

But we are digressing. Imagine yourself at one of these "Southern Barbecues." The table literally groans with abundance. The savory odors of the roasted ox are tickling every nostril. Oysters of the mammoth species, and fresh from their briny beds, are begging to be engulfed in the cavernous jaws which open around. Turkeys, plump and tender, solicit your attention; canvass-back ducks rival the turkeys in your regards; sweet potatoes lead on the vegetable phalanx, while near at hand the mealy "Murphies" are bursting from their skins with jealousy and sending up their hot breath in a perfect cloud. Wild game of every kind graces the heavily laden board, which presents on the whole such a picture of overrunning plenty as has never been seen in any other land.

The company gather around! And what a company! None of your spindle-shanked, narrow-shouldered, wretched looking Chartists: none of your famished Esaus, ready to sell their birth-right for a mess of pottage; but sleek, aldermanic looking fellows, men of an "unbounded stomach," and presided over perhaps by some turtle and oyster-fed dignitary, of whom it might be said:—

"He bore
A paunch of mighty bulk before,
Which still he had a special care,
To keep well cramm'd with thrifty fare."

But there are not only men, stout, athletic men, present at this glorious repast, but ladies—the beautiful and queenlike daughters of the South, whose happy smiles and radiant eyes cast happiness and sunshine upon every object. A gayer and more brilliant spectacle cannot be imagined, or if aught could add to its loveliness, it is found in the surrounding scene, and the season at which it is held. It is the time of the glorious Indian summer, and the balmy air of an Italian spring fans every brow; the forests are tinted with the many colored hues of the fall; the hum of cheerful labor is heard from the fields; the smoke from peaceful dwellings mounts upward in graceful columns; and in the distance, are seen the spires of churches and the domes of schoolhouses rising above the streets of towns and cities. It is after such a feast of body and soul and amid such a scene that an orator arises to preach Discontent, Despair, Rebellion; to hold forth upon the oppressions and suffering of that assembly which never knew anything but the oppressions and sufferings of a heavy dinner; and to make his audience.

"Defy
That which they love most tenderly;
Quarrel with minced pies, and disparage
Their best and dearest friend, plum-porridge;
Fat ox and goose itself oppose,
And blaspheme custard thro' their nose."

We need not say that no orator who ever lived could accomplish such a purpose. The combined powers of Demosthenes and Patrick Henry could effect nothing for the best cause in the world in an after dinner oration. What! Talk against the Union to youngsters whose hearts are just melting under the warmth of those bright eyes? Preach rebellion to men who have passed the age of sensibility, and arrived at that period of life in which a calm conscience and good digestion are regarded as the great blessings of existence. Dilate upon the beauties of Dissolution to those agriculturists whose farms are smiling in peace; those merchants and mechanics whose towns and cities have never sustained a bombardment; those mothers whose sons are growing up in health and virtue at their side, and whose dwellings are calm and secure through the long and dark night. Implore that well-fed and well-dressed crowd to throw away all the solid blessings in their hands for starvation, misery, and civil war! Why, the folly of Eve in giving up Heaven for one morsel of forbidden fruit, would be the only parallel of such stupendous imbecility.

The Seceders have begun their work wrong. Whenever we get up a rebellion here in Virginia, we will have no barbecues. We will petition our Governor to proclaim a fast of at least three days. We shall not prove to the bodily senses of people that they are well off by stuffing them with the fat of the land, and then try to convince their drowsy intellects that they are in a horribly oppressed condition. We shall recommend a spare diet, such as is used by pugilists previous to a fight, until we become so ravenous that we are ready to eat our game as well as kill it, and drink victorious bumpers of wine from the skulls of our enemies. But save us from the folly of exhorting a prosperous people to rebel against themselves.

Richmond Republican.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF 1851.

THE IMMENSE BUILDING.—We are accustomed to think that in the matter of building ships, edifices, and the moving of houses, there are no people on the face of the earth who can beat us Yankees either in rapidity or excellence of construction. But even Yankees will be somewhat surprised when they learn the particulars relative to the size, mode of construction, and the time to be employed in the erection of the edifice now building in Hyde Park, London, for the World's Fair of 1851. A late number of the London Times contains many interesting particulars, from which we gather the following:

The building is to cover 752,832 superficial feet and to have an exhibition surface of about 21 acres, to be roofed in and handed over to the Commissioners within little more than three months from its commencement, to be constructed almost entirely of glass and iron, the most fragile and the strongest of working materials, to combine the lightness of a conservatory with the stability of our most permanent structures.

In its favor the window law is to be ignored and 900,000 superficial feet of glass weighing upwards of 400 tons, are to be used in its construction—Not a stone nor a brick will be employed throughout the spacious structure, which is to rest upon 3,300 cast iron columns, and to be strengthened and kept together by 2,224 girders of the same articles. The plan of it, which has been published represents an edifice in every respect qualified to become the repository of the world's industry; the basement and two upper tiers diminishing in area as they ascend, and thus securing a graceful variety of outline, while the monotonous enect of a facade 1,848 feet long is broken by a spacious trancept. This trancept, 408 feet long and 72 feet wide, will be arched, and will rise to the height of 108 feet, enclosing within it, as in a glass case, a row of trees, which respect for the park timber has induced the commissioners to spare. The roof of the entire building will be covered with canvass to exclude the rays of the sun, except the trancept, where the presence of trees render light necessary. When completed, the view presented by the interior will be most wonderfully graceful and splendid. The central avenue 1,848 feet long, 72 feet broad, and sixty-six feet high, with rows of pillars shooting off from it on either side, and so arranged that the eye can traverse freely to every part of the building, must have a very grand appearance. Care has been taken to have the columns upon which the whole fabric rests distributed with such regularity as to avoid all confusion or forest-like effect.

Besides the immense space thus devoted to the general purpose of the exhibition, there will be on the North side of the building a room set apart for the machinery. The dimensions of this apartment are on a scale proportionate to the important branch of inventive industry to which it is dedicated. It will be 946 feet long, 48 feet broad, and twenty-four feet high. A light iron railing will enclose the building at a distance of eight feet from its exterior, and beyond that there will be a footpath. The grand entrance will be nearly opposte the Prince's gateway, and will have seven pairs of doors. Ample arrangements have been made, however, for the entry and exit of visiters at other points. Messrs. Fox, Henderson & Co., the contractors, estimate, among other requisites, 34 miles of gutters, 202 miles of sash bars, and 8 miles of table for exhibiting.

It is now a month since the actual work of construction commenced. In that time the foundation pieces on which the columns rest have nearly all been fixed upon their beds of conerets, and the earth filled in around them. The columns required for a large section of the southern and central parts of the building have been put up and connected together by girders. The framework begins to indicate the form of the future structure, just as the ribs and bones of the mammoth shadow forth what the animal must have been when alive. The external facing of the ground tier has been commenced, and while the framework of about one-third of the structure is in a forward state, nearly every detail of the work has been begun. The rapidity with which the building progresses may be estimated from the fact that two columns and three girders can be fixed in about fifteen minutes.

THE VOTING FOR OFFICERS.

We give below the different votings, on Monday, for Officers to the two Houses. Those strong Whig counties, we repeat, that have sent Loco Focos to the Legislature, may thus see how their liberality and confidence have been repaid. We subjoin, first, the vote for Speaker of the House of Commons:

FOR MR. DOBBIN,

Messrs. Sharpe, J. D. McDowell, Avery, L. P. Hill, Johnson, Holland, Bond, Jarvis, Pegram, Stevenson, Cotton, Thigpen, Bridges, J. Barnes, Kelly, Martin, Pope, Love, Saunderson, Stow, L. B. Sanders, A. J. Leach, Rankin, Reinhardt, Sherrill, Sutton, Mizell, Harrison, Williams, S J. Person, Taylor, W. Hill, Powers, Fonville, Durham, C. Jones, Patterson, Wilson, Winstead, W. McNeill, Ruffin, N. McNeill, Kallum, Montgomery, Dickinson, Marshall, Flynn, Cockerham, McLean, Waugh, Sheek, Herring, Boykin, Thornton, Eaton, R. M. Saunders, Newsom, Rollins, Gordon, Flemming, Sherard, Brogden, Swanner, Clanton, Matthis—65.

FOR MR. RAYNER.

Dunlop, Dargan, McM'lan, Stubbs, Tripp, Winston, Cherry, J. H. Hill, Walton, Erwin, Shinpoch, Scott, Hackney, Barco, Pigott, Brazier, Jerkins, Maultsby, J. M. Leach, A. G. Foster, Douthit, Wiggins, Boyle, D. F. Caldwell, Parham, McKoy, Adams, Amis, Campbell, Wiley, Davidson, Siler, Eure, Russell, D. Barnes, Farmer, Blow, Steele, Thornburg, Webb, Sloan, McCleese, Foard, Locke, A. H. Caldwell, A. M. Foster, J. Hayes, Drake, G. W. Hayes.—49.

For C. Jones, Mr. Dobbin.—1.

The following was the vote upon the adoption of Mr. Steele's proposition as amended by Mr. Wilson. Mr. S. it will be recollected, proposed to re-appoint the former Clerks. Mr. Wilson moved to amend by striking out the name of Mr. Dodge and inserting that of Thomas B. Bailey. A division was demanded, and the House agreed to strike out. Ayes and Noes were demanded by Mr. Rayner:

YEAS—McDowell, Sharpe, Avery, Johnson, W. Hill, Bond, Hilliard, Stevenson, Pegram, Jarvis, Kelly, Matthis, Thigpen, J. Barnes, Bridges, Martin, Love, Saunderson, A. J. Leach, L. B. Sanders, Rankin, Reinhardt, Sherrill, Stow, Sutton, Mizell, Williams, Harrison, S. J. Person, Taylor, Powers, Fonville, Jones, Durham, Patton, Montgomery, Wilson, Winstead, Blow, Dickinson, N. McNeill, W. McNeill, Kallam, Ruffin, Herring, Boykin, Marshall, Waugh, Flynn, Sheek, Cockerham, McLean, Newsom, Rollins, Eaton, Thornton, Swanner, Sherrard, Brogden, Gordon, Flemming, R. M. Saunders.—63.

NAYS.—Dunlap, Dargan, McMillan, Stubbs, Tripp, Winston, Cherry, J. H. Hill, Erwin, Walton, Scott, Shinpock, Barco, Pigott, Hackney, Brazier, Cotton, G. W. Hayes, Maultsby, Jerkins, J. M. Leach, A. J. Foster, Douthitt, Eure, Wiggins, Parham, Amis, D. F. Caldwell, Wiley, Adams, Pope, Rayner, Bogle, McKay, Siler, Davidson, Turner, D. Barnes, Thornburg, Steele, Foard, A. H. Caldwell, Sloan, Webb, Locke, McCleese, A. M. Foster, J. Hayes, Clanton, Drake.—50.

It is proper that we should state, in this connection, that Mr. Avery's object, as avowed by himself, in moving the indefinite postponement of Mr. Steele's proposition, was that a direct vote might be taken on the relative merits of the Candidates. He came prepared, he said, to vote for Mr. Dodge, and did vote, we learn, against the striking out of that gentleman's name.

The vote in the Senate, for Speaker, was announced as follows:

FOR MR. EDWARDS.

Rogers, Sherrod, Clarke, Speight, Nixon, McMillan, Herring, Wooten, Cameron, Bunting, Thompson, Watson, Jones, Drake, Collins, Cannady, Hester, Berry, Williamson, Courts, G. W. Caldwell, Hargrave, Barrow, Bower, Hoke, and Thomas.—26.

FOR COL. JOYNER.

Willy, Pender, Sessoms, Bond, Raburn, Grist, Kelly, Malloy, Dickinson, Lane, Gilmer, Barringer, Lillington, Davidson, Bynum, T. R. Caldwell and Woodfin.—17.

The vote for Clerks and Principal Doorkeeper was very nearly as above.

MESSRS. JOYNER AND RAYNER.

These gentlemen, by suffering their friends to run them for Speakers, in their respective Houses, when they knew that they were only set up to be knocked down, furnishes but another illustration of their disinterested services in the cause of Constitutional liberty.

By a long and useful course of public service, Col. Joyner has fairly earned his present position. A Gentleman, in the truest sense of the term, and a Statesman of sound practical views, he has often, and eminently adorned the station which his friends desired that he again should fill.

The compliment to Mr. Rayner was no less merited. However much we should have been pleased to see him elevated to a station, which he would fill with honor to himself and the House of Commons, we infinitely prefer his presence on the floor. So gallant and fearless a champion of truth, and so uncompromising a foe to the destructive doctrines of Loco Focoism and Demagogueism, could not well be spared from the discussions which must constantly spring up.

OURSELF.

We are highly gratified at the reception which our little DAILY experienced on yesterday. Everywhere it seems to have been greeted in that spirit of cordial welcome, that should hail, whatever its merit, the first Daily Paper ever printed in North Carolina!

Our Office is necessarily in great confusion, owing to the multiplicity of duties incident to the commencement of a Session. In a few days, however, we hope to have everything au fait.

Our Reporters will commence their duties to-morrow. Orders for Subscriptions, &c., may be made to them, in either branch of the Legislature.

REMARKS OF HON. JAMES C. DOBBIN, ON ASSUMING THE SPEAKERSHIP OF THE HOUSE.

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS:

I cannot permit this occasion to pass without tendering my profound acknowledgments for the honor you have bestowed in electing me to a position hitherto adorned by our most eminent citizens. Nor can I withhold the expression of sincere diffidence in assuming a task, the proper execution of which requires much legislative experience and much Parliamentary learning.

I rely on your generous indulgence, and feel assured that I do not in vain invoke your earnest co-operation in every effort to preserve the order and to sustain the dignity of the House.

Experience admonishes many of you—observation has, perhaps, admonished you all, that nothing is so well calculated to promote the despatch of business in a deliberative body, as a rigid enforcement of the rules of order, and a strict observance of the rules of decorum.

We have convened, gentlemen, at a peculiarly interesting period in the history of our State and our country. Events of momentous magnitude are passing around us. Questions involving property, and peace, and Constitutional rights, seem now to be assuming a practical character. The minds of our wisest men are filled with fearful apprehensions and gloomy forebodings. The people of North Carolina look now with the most intense concern to the action of their Representatives. Our Legislative bearing now may seriously affect the character of our State. Let us with scrupulous fidelity preserve her honor—with a calm determination maintain her rights.

In renewing the expression of thanks for this flattering testimonial of your partiality, allow me to assure you that in attempting to discharge the trust I shall know no feelings but those of the strictest impartiality—no party but our common constituents—no locality but our common State.

REMARKS OF MR. SPEAKER EDWARDS ON ASSUMING THE CHAIR OF THE SENATE.

SENATORS: For this kind and distinguished mark of your confidence and favor, I pray you to accept my sincere and hearty thanks. I shall ever cherish it among the fondest recollections of my life as a much valued testimonial of the good opinion of Senators—with many of whom it has been my good fortune heretofore to co-operate in the public service. This distinction is the more gratifying and the more highly appreciated because of the peculiar circumstances under which it has been bestowed.

Were there no other considerations, this alone would be with me a sufficient inducement to bring to the discharge of the duties of the chair all of fidelity, impartiality and ability, I may be able to command—sparing neither pains or industry to acquit myself of its high responsibilities, in a manner corresponding with the favorable expectations, and suitable to the dignity and high character, of this branch of the Legislature.

The task I have assumed, Senators, at your bidding, at all times arduous and difficult, even to the experienced officer, cannot fail to be specially so to me, since it is the first time it has been made my duty to undertake it. Its accomplishment, I am fully sensible, depends mainly on yourselves; and I indulge the gratifying assurance, that I shall not be disappointed when I invoke in advance, as I now do, your kind and cordial co-operation.

It is your right and yours only, gentlemen, to prescribe rules by which all our deliberations shall be regulated; it shall be my unceasing effort to execute and enforce them with the strictest fidelity and impartiality. It is also your right to affix limits to the authority of the Chair. They shall be most implicitly observed. And I beg Senators to remember that the Chair can exercise no discretionary or dispensing powers, and the individual whom you have now honored, desires neither, except so far as it may be deemed indispensably necessary to the proper discharge of our common duties. Especially do I desire and hope, that I may, in no instance, evince a want of proper and equal respect for each and every member of the Senate—or of our regard for the high interests committed to us—or of deep and solid devotion to the lasting welfare of each and every portion of our beloved State.

☞ HORACE MANN, after all, is elected in the Eighth District, of Massachusetts, but not by Whig votes. Even the combined strength of the Free Soilers and the few dissentient Whigs was insufficient to do this. Nothing saved him but Democratic votes. The Democratic vote for Whitaker, the candidate of that party for Congress, is 1306 less than the vote for the Loco Foco Governor. These thirteen hundred and six votes were all given for Horace Mann, who, without them, would have been more than a thousand short of a majority. He now goes to Congress as the Democratic Free Soil Representative. Let him not call himself a Whig, says the "Boston Courier."

The "Standard" has been endeavoring to create the impression, that it is a few of the Democracy, alone, in Massachusetts, who seem disposed to regard the Fugitive Law. We commend the above facts to the consideration of that Journal.

☞ We are not in the habit of boasting, but, really we cannot refrain from expressing our obligations for the handsome accessions to our Subscription list that we have received within a few days. We struck off on yesterday and this morning, of our Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly, within a very small fraction of 2000 copies!

☞ The barrenness of yesterday's mails and the uninteresting nature of yesterday's proceedings fully explain the want of variety in this morning's issue.

We shall have the Governor's Message in to-morrow's paper, if not too long.

RECEPTION OF THOMPSON AT BOSTON.

A Scene of Confusion—Thompson not allowed to Speak—The Meeting broken up, &c.

BOSTON, Friday, Nov. 15.

The meeting in Faneuil Hall for the reception of Geo. Thompson was very large, and the galleries contained many ladies. Edmund Quincy presided. When Mr. Thompson entered the Hall he was greeted with shouts of applause from his friends, mingled with hisses.

William Lloyd Garrison commenced the proceedings by reading the address of reception, containing a history of Mr. Thompson's movements in the anti slavery cause in England and this country, and concluded by stating that just fifteen years ago he was obliged to fly clandestinely from this country, but, said the speaker, 'the Boston of 1835 is not the Boston of 1850—the Massachusetts of 1850 is not the Massachusetts of 1835.'—[Loud cheers.]

Toward the close of Mr. Garrison's remarks the meeting began to be disorderly, and when he finished many cheers were given for Daniel Webster and the Union.

Wendell Phillips next ascended the platform, but was greeted with groans, hisses, and exclamations, which completely drowned his voice.—Loud cheers were again given for the Union, Daniel Webster and for Gov. Briggs and Jenny Lind! Mr. Phillips appealed to them to hear Mr. Thompson, and wipe off the stain of 1835, when Boston drove him off a fugitive. He then retired and Mr. Thompson took the stand, but instantly the Hall became a perfect bedlam of noise and confusion. He tried to speak but in vain. Cheers were reiterated for the Union and Webster, intermingled with groans, cat calls and hisses. After remaining upon the stand for some time, he bowed to the audience and was about to retire, but his friends would not permit him. A chair was handed him and he sat down fronting the audience.

From this time the rioters had it all their own way. Groans were given for John Bull, a ring was formed on the floor, and one or two commenced to dance. Abbey Kelly was called for and endeavored to speak; but after uttering a few sentences stopped.

Rev. Wm. Henry Channing next appeared, but his voice was drowned in hisses and out-cries.

Rev. Theodore Parker next ascended the platform. He mutely pointed to the pictures of Washington, Adams and others, and endeavored to make himself heard, but the cries were redoubled. The President of the meeting at this point came forward and shook hands with Mr. Thompson, when he bowed to the audience, and retired amidst thunders of applause. All this time there was no attempt made at violence, and the ladies in the galleries remained quiet spectators of the scene.

After a consultation between the friends of the meeting, it was deemed proper to adjourn, which was declared by the President, but the noise still continued. Frederick Douglas then ascended the platform, and appealed to them to hear a fugitive slave speak. The audience would not hear him. The gas was then partially turned down, and the hall being in a state of semi-darkness, the scene was quite picturesque. Above stood the stalwart frame of Frederick Douglas, waving his hands aloft and occasionally crying out to be heard; and below was the vast audience, swaying about and uttering cries of every description. The officers of the meeting then began to retire—Mr. Tohmpson having previously left. Shouting and cheering still continued, but the audience commenced dispersing. A police officer here appeared on the platform and said that he was ordered by the City Marshal to request the audience to retire.

By 9½ o'clock, the hall was wholly cleared, but a large crowd waited outside, apparently for Thompson. As a carriage drew up and a man got in, supposed to be him, three groans were given for John Bull, and some added, let him not interfere in our affairs, and the carriage drove off. It did not, however, contain Thompson. This ended the scene. The doors of Faneuil Hall were shut, the lights put out, and the crowd dispersed—discussing, as they went, the scenes of the meeting.

THE ELECTIONS.—New York.—The official vote from King's county gives Hunt for Governor, 523 majority. The Tribune publishes a complete official table, giving Hunt 247 majority. The Journal of Commerce makes his majority 257. The Herald makes it 268. For Lieutenant Governor, the Herald gives Church, democrat, 6,422 majority, while the Journal of Commerce makes his majority 7,214. The returns are, for this office, partly estimated. For Canal Commissioner the run is very close. The Herald gives Mather, democrat, 278 majority.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The Legislature, so far, stands: Senate—11 whigs, 24 coalition, 5 no choice. The Boston Atlas says that there is some doubt about the election of two of the coalition candidates in the Bristol district.—House—The advertiser gives a table which stands 169 whig, 67 democrat, 56 free soil, 52 coalition, and 79 no choice; thus showing a total of 169 whigs, 178 opposition, and leaves 79 no choice.

THE COMMON SCHOOL FUND.—We are sorry to see in the Asheville News a serious argument in favor of the diversion of this Fund from its pledged object to another and a different, however noble object. The Editor is in favor of appropriating the Fund to the construction of rail roads. There are no more sincere friends of Internal Improvements in North Carolina than ourselves, but we protest against the proposed transfer.—We not only regard the faith of the State as pledged, but we think the present appropriation of the Fund is eminently useful, and essentially necessary to the character and the welfare of the State. True, the fund is not as large as it ought to be. True, it may not always be so judiciously applied as it might be. But that the effect is otherwise than beneficial in a high degree, we cannot believe.—Fay. Obs.

SPRINKLINGS.

THE SPIRIT OF THE FANATICS.—The Centerville (Ohio) Whig announces the arrival of an Abolition agitator, named A. C. Wright, from N. York, to raise funds to keep up "agitation" on the Slave question. The Whig says "he is in the habit of publicly calling George Washington a "kidnapper and a negro driver." "He denounces God Almighty for not making the Bible Freesoil enough, and says he has no reverence for the name of God." Is it not too bad, that such men should find encouragement and receive approbation, from any part of the people of any portion of the Union?

Senator Downs.—The same letter that was addressed to Senator Soule, of Louisiana, by the Democrats of New Orleans, which he refused to notice, was also sent to Senator Downs, his reply to which is published in the New Orleans papers. Gen. Downs recognizes, in the most ample forms, the obligation of Senators to respond to the inquiries of their constituents into their political opinions, and states, without reseeve or circumlocution, that he is not in favor of secession, disunion or the formation of a Southern confederacy, now or hereafter, in consequence of any legislation that has yet taken place. He is for accepting the adjustment laws, quieting the agitation against them, and laboring zealously to restore harmony to the Union.

A Lucky Man.—The Rev. Dr. Hawkes appears to be quite a favorite with his parishoners, at Cavalry Church, New York. They have, it is said, made him present of $15,000, have rented and furnished a house for him, have insured his life for $10,000, and have agreed to give a salary of $5000 a year.—Surely the gentleman is one of the lucky ones.

Another Great Vocalist Expected.—Miss Catharine Hays, a distinguished Irish vocalist, who has already attained great fame and the highest musical honors from the Italians, is expected in this country at some future day, though at what precise time is not known.

☞ Lind and Parodi are both attracting crowded houses in New York city, and, what is better, the greatest harmony prevails between the two distinguished cantatrices. Lind visits Philadelphia on the 25th, and is to give three concerts.

Fellow-Feeling.—"I appeal to the sisters," said a down-east parson, "and ask them if they never had a feller feeling in their bosom."

New York, Nov. 15.—The entire State has now been heard from officially, and Hunt's majority is two hundred and seventy. This, of course, settles who is Governor of the State.

The Marshall of Robeson County, N. C., in taking the census, found a colored man rising 120 years.—He is blind, but his faculties not otherwise impaired.

☞ Hon. Howell Cobb addressed the people of Macon on Tuesday last. The Telegraph says:

"The acquiescents made nothing by Mr. Cobb's visits here. The Southern Rights party is stronger to-day than it was before he spoke"

Col. Benton has made a long speech in St. Louis, defining his position upon himself mainly, upon the Compromise generally, and upon the Union extensively.

Jenny Lind in Havana.—Barnum's Agent has returned from Havana, having secured the Tacon Theatre fourteen nights for Jenny Lind's concerts.

The editor of the Knickerbocker is such a moral man, that he writes the name of a famous Dutch city thus, Rotterd—m.

A Circus in Trouble.—A letter from Newberry, S. C., says that a man named Hawley, the forerunner of Robinson & Eldred's Circus, arrived there the other evening, and handed a couple of numbers of the N. York Atlas to some gentlemen. The Atlas was filled with rank abolition sentiments. Hawley was waited on and examined by some of the citizens of Newberry, and a large number of copies of the same paper were found upon him. He received notice to quit, which he did instantly at nine o'clock at night. The Town Council of Newberry have given notice that Robinson & Eldred's Circus would not receive a license to exhibit in that village.

A Great Hen Convention, or fair, has been holding at Boston. At the closing sale of fowls on Friday one Cochin China cock brought $30. There were pure and beautiful Cochin Chinas, Java and other fowls.

Indiana Constitutional Convention.

Cincinnati, Nov. 15.—Test votes by the Indiana Constitutional Convention indicate the insertion of a clause prohibiting the emigration of negroes, or purchasing property in the State, by a large majority.

☞ Harvard College has this year 311 professional students and resident graduates, and 293 under graduates—total 604.

THE SOUTHERNER.

THE undersigned propose to publish a weekly newspaper in the town of Greenville of the above name to be issued as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers can be obtained to warrant the enterprise. We would forewarn the public against being alarmed by our name, as it is not intended to indicate any alliance with disunion or secession.—We are for the Constitution and the Union, but we think that it is high time for the South to be increasing in attachment for home, and looking more to home interests, and particularly that we here, should be zealously regarding the interests and concerns of our own North Carolina. The past and present teach us the lesson to rely upon ourselves, to sustain and foster our home industry and energy, and provide for our comforts and wants as much as we can within our own borders. It is from this consideration that we intend to make the "Southerner" an out-and-out North Carolina paper, and to devote ourselves in its columns chiefly to the subject of improvement in the old North State, improvement in the agriculture, manufactures, facilities for transportation and markets, (particularly by means of plank-roads) in her education, and in all other means by which her vast resources may become more fully developed

In politics, the "Southerner" will be firmly and decidedly Whig, but opposed to every sort of Northern fanaticism, including abolitionism, free soilism ultraism, Millerism, Mormonism Fourierism and the whole family of such abstract Yankeeisms.

We shall also give to the public the latest local and general news, which the growing prosperity of Greenville and this section of our State, we think will make interesting to a numerous class of readers.

The "Southerner" will be nearly or quite as large as the "North State Whig" and published at the very low price of $2.00 a year if paid in advance, or within one month after the first issue, $2,50 if paid within six months and $3,00 if paid at the end of the year.

Sketches of North Carolina.

BEATTIE'S FORD, Lincoln Co., N. C.
October 25th, 1850.

A WORK will be published by the undersigned this Spring, entitled as above, giving an accurate account of each County in our State, Alphabetical order, the derivation of its name, date of formation, its Colonial and Revolutionary History, a Biography of its distinguished citizens, an accurate list of its representation in each branch of the General Assembly, its Towns, Rivers, Population, Resources, Products, and Topography.

The undersigned has for many years been collecting and condensing the material for this work.—The archives of our own State have been carefully examined, and copious extracts made from its records. He has procured from the offices of the Board of Trade and Plantation in London many valuable documents. Rare and valuable works have been purchased from abroad, touching the early history of our State, and each County, which have never seen the light. He has been kindly aided by gentlemen in different sections by copies of original documents, and faithful traditional statements, highly important and interesting.

He does not aspire to the position of the Historian, but hopes from records and stratistical facts to afford materials to other and ables hands for this pleasing and less laborious duty. This work, it is hoped, will be useful as a book of reference to the statesman, and scholar, and men of business or leisure.—Occasional extracts have been published in the Standard and other papers of this State, over the signature of "Tacitus"

The History of North Carolina is yet to be written. The remark which one of the ablest Historians of the age (Bancroft,) has been compelled to make, that "so cerelessly has the History of North Carolina been written that the name, merits and end of the first Govenor is not known," is a reflection upon us. An examination of the early history of the Counties of North Carolina shows a record of the purest patriotism and indomitable courage. This record is now covered by the dust of age and unknown by neglect. It is a debt which the present generation owes to the past as well as the future to preserve the memorials; for it often occurs in the history of our race, that facts known to one generation are controverted by the next, and at a succeeding period are considered as doubtful legends, unworthy of historical faith Our Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence in May 1775, had almost been an illustration of this truth.

"These are deeds which should not pass away,
And names that must not wither; though the earth
Forgets her empires with just decay,
The enslavers and the enslaved, their death and birth."

This work will be illustrated with a Map of the State, from latest surveys, and including the new Counties to this date, and sketches in Engravings of some of her beautiful scenery. It will contain about 500 pages, and be furnished at one dollar a copy. Subscriptions will be received and the book furnished at different points of the State.
